

ABSTRACT

A method and system for fabricating window coverings by receiving orders for custom-colored window coverings, formulating a layout for cutting bulk window covering material to accommodate the orders, cutting the bulk window covering material according to the layout and then applying the desired color to the cut material is disclosed. The desired color may be applied by converting the color information to a mathematical address, mixing inks to provide ink according to the mathematical address and applying the mixed ink to a blank window covering.

10